

So,
what's new?

Sauti za Wananchi

Have your voice heard!

This booklet is produced by Twaweza staff.

Authors: Evarist Kamwaga and Elvis Mushi

Cartoonist/Graphics: Marco Tibasima

Editors: Rakesh Rajani, Mtemi Zombwe and Youdi Schipper

©Hivos/Twaweza 2012

Email: info@twaweza.org

Website: www.twaweza.org

Any part of this booklet can be copied for non-commercial use only. All you have to do is cite the source and send Twaweza two copies of the material in which our content is used.

Dear reader,

We all have something to say: about where we live, new things in our lives and what we want to change. We have voices but most of the time our voices are only heard by our friends and families. But we don't know that the realities of our lives are of interest to many people: our fellow citizens and the leaders who represent us.

When citizens' voices (Sauti Za Wananchi) are heard, information about the reality of their lives can help to inform changes in the country. In short these voices can help to build the nation and drive forward progress. This booklet is about a new initiative called "Sauti za Wananchi (Voices of Citizens)" introduced and implemented by an independent organization called Twaweza. Your village or street is one of the 200 areas randomly selected to be in this initiative. In each area, twelve participants were chosen randomly. Once or twice every month, Twaweza will phone the participants and ask a few questions.

The objective is to learn about the living conditions and opinions of the citizens of Uganda. Information from all 200 areas will be analyzed and put in a report every month and this will be disseminated to many people (names and phone numbers of participants will be confidential). The reports will also be shared with the media. In this way, many ordinary citizens, leaders, representatives as well as the President will know what is happening in communities across Uganda, and they will be able to hear citizens' views.

Sometimes leaders make decisions without knowing the realities of the living conditions of ordinary citizens. Sauti za Wananchi (Voices of Citizens) is an initiative that will ensure that your realities and voice are heard.

Characters

Okello

Entrepreneur, the leader of the Sauti za Wananchi (Voices of Citizens) initiative in the area

Mwami Mukiibi

One of the participants

Nandutu

Coordinator of the Sauti za Wananchi (Voices of Citizens) team in the area

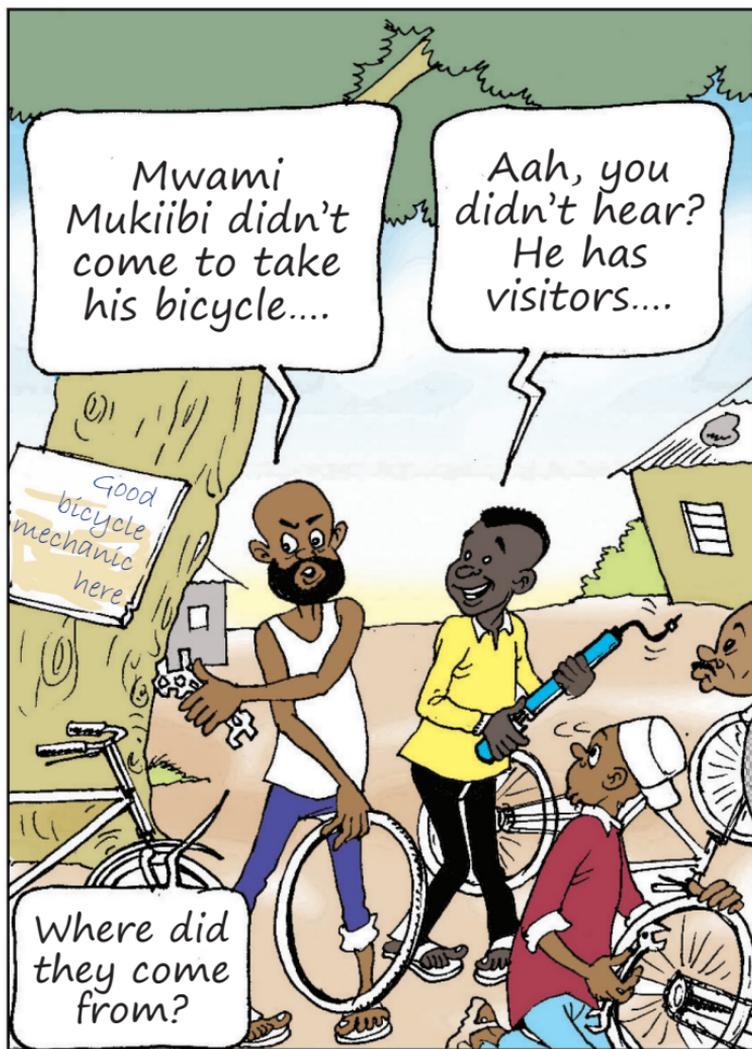

Mugisha

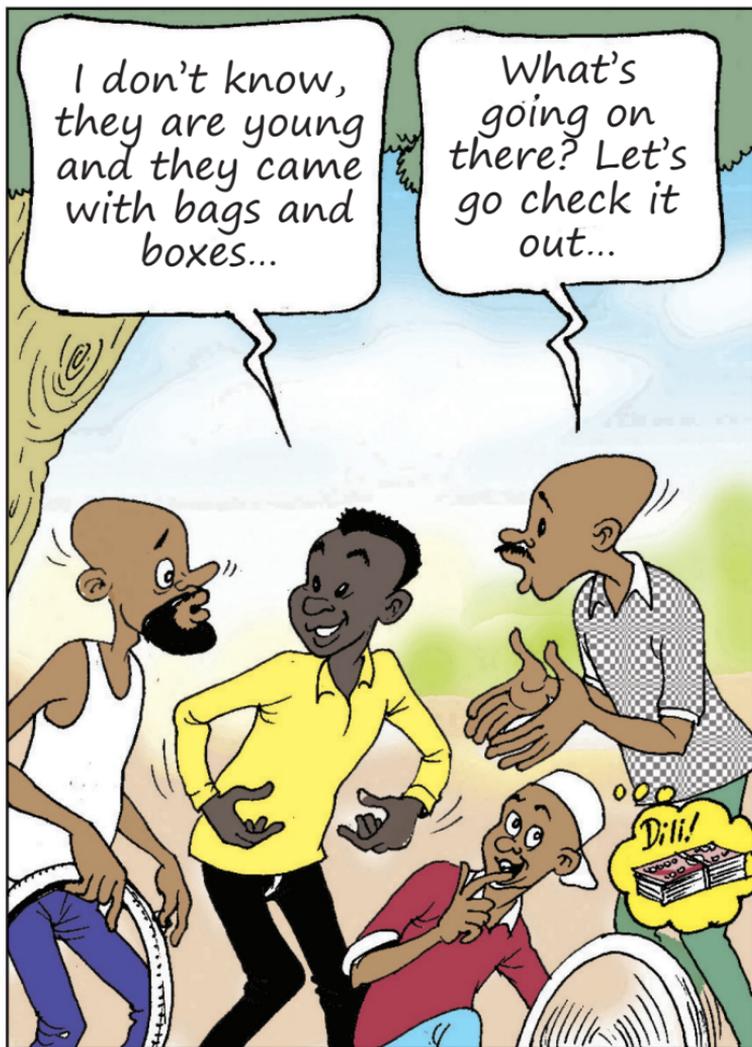

A citizen who does not have a lot of faith in research

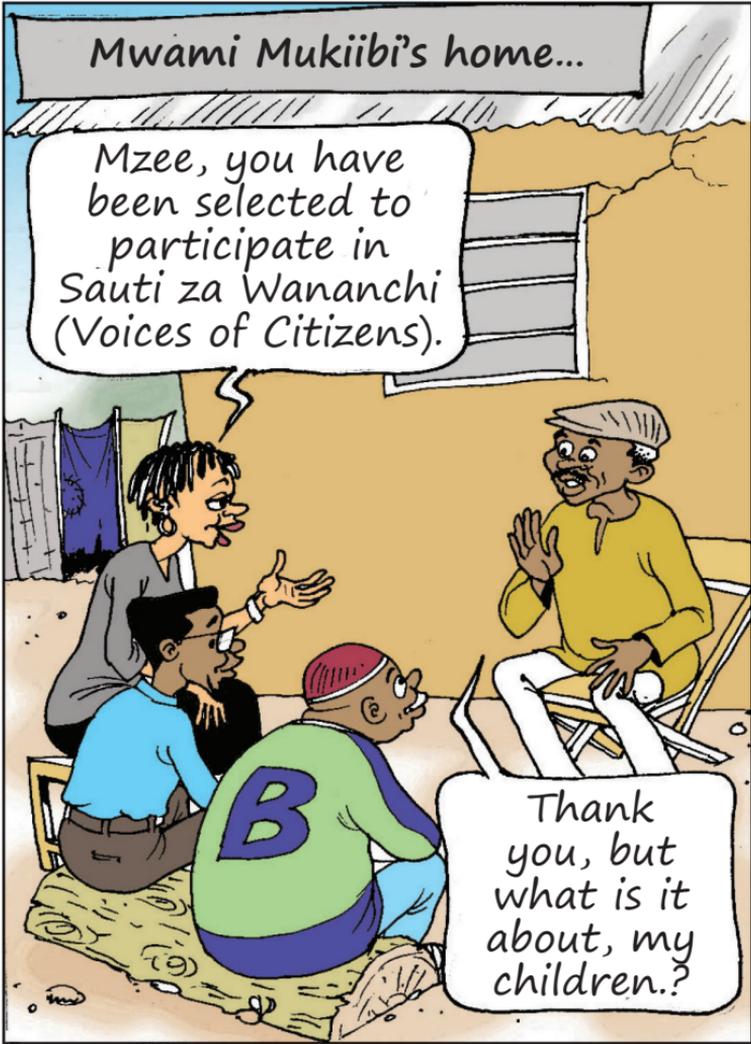

Researchers

The Sauti za Wananchi (Voices of Citizens) research team

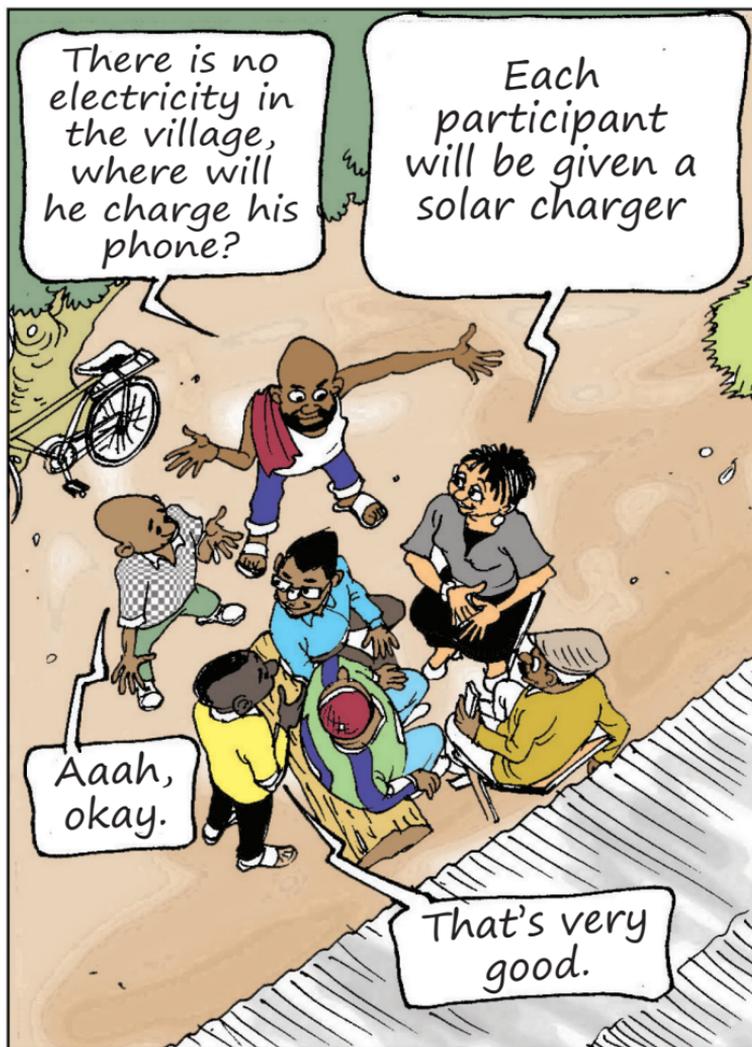

Mr. Mechanic, you have come with the whole gang.... welcome...

Yes Mzee, we have come for gifts from our visitors.

Stop joking brother, this is about research.

Meeting of all participants...

Eeh, you have a mobile phone these days?

My... you don't know? We were given these phones for the survey.

I'm part of it but I didn't get one.

I really don't know but since we are going for the Sauti za Wananchi meeting we can find this out!

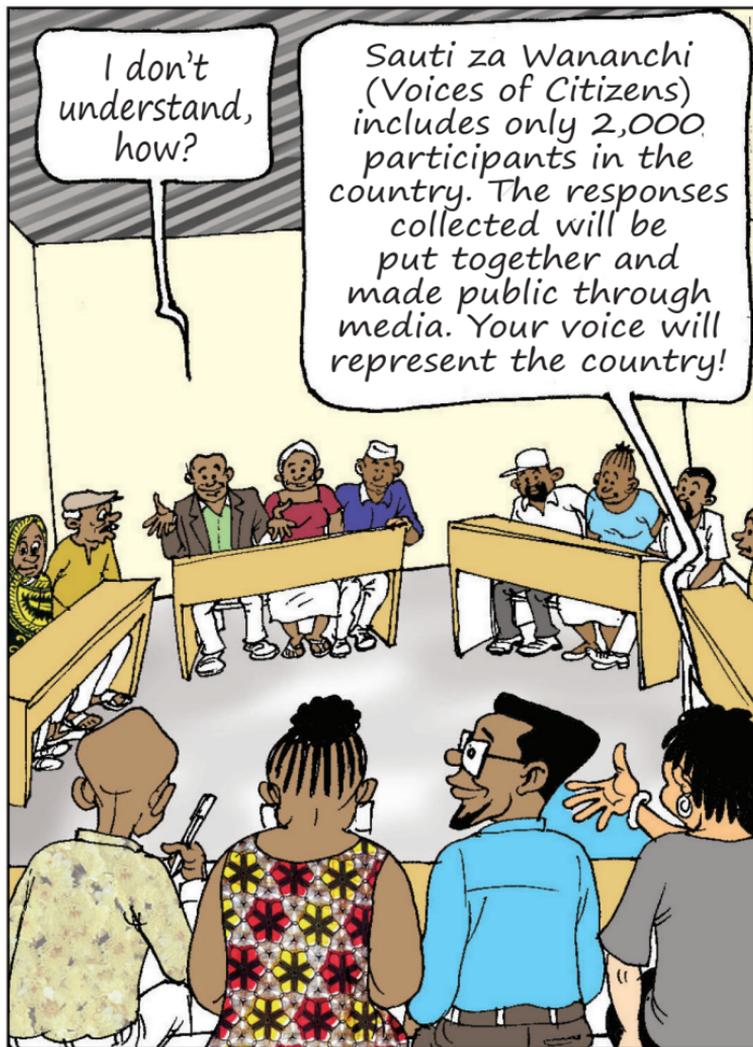

Oh, we forgot to ask.... Will our names be made public?

No, your names will be confidential between you and us.

Follow these steps for the best communication:

- Answer your phone when you are being called
- Find a quiet place to talk
- Select a good time for you to do the interview
- Remove or stay away from all disturbances
- Hold your phone in such a way that you can hear and be heard
- Listen carefully
- If you haven't heard the person you are speaking with, ask him/her to repeat
- Ask questions if you don't understand
- Speak in a moderate tone.

Making sure your phone has enough power:

- Don't turn your phone on and off all the time
- Don't put your phone on vibrate mode
- Minimize the brightness on your phone screen
- When listening to the radio use earphones instead of the speakers in your phone
- Minimize torch use.